Form for Ordering Additional Copies of LCWR's Winter 2010 Occasional Papers

Focus of the Winter 2010 issue: Living with hope in times of darkness

Highlights of the issue will be:

An Interview with Dr. Shawn Copeland

Dr. Copeland, associate professor in the theology department of Boston College and a former president of the Catholic Theological Society of America, shares her insights on moving into a new future for the world and church. The interview utilizes the recent address of Constance FitzGerald, OCD entitled "From Impasse to Prophetic Hope: Crisis of Memory" as a launching point.

A Reflection on the Epiphany Story

The gospel story of the epiphany will set the context for the reflections of this issue on journeying with hope in darkness.

Reflections from Leaders on Hope in Dark Times

Several women religious leaders share their personal reflections on where they find light and hope today as they lead their congregations in these challenging times.

Reflections from Young Women Religious

Four younger women share on why they continue to choose religious life in these uncertain times and what they most would like to say to those in leadership at this moment.

All LCWR members, associates and subscribers will receive a copy of this issue in January. Many leaders order additional copies for their own members.

Order forms and payment are due by December 10.
